

fold

to apply for a

on "lay dor-
ars and wasn't
s application,
e same formal

l said no-
e levels were

get lost but it
were compli-
zgerald said.
/olfsberg said
and agreed to
and close the

d relationship

l

d floor facade
as reduced.
elieved these
had ignored

o will not fit ne area." She
rge aged-care
od.

net state and
not be detri-
a.

r Peter Rollis
ropriate for ed would be

New voices on the block

MUSLIM rap band The Brothahood got an enthusiastic reception at the launch of a new youth participation initiative by the Centre for Multicultural Youth Issues (CMYI) last Friday. The CMYI offers support and advocacy to young people with migrant or refugee backgrounds. The Youth Participation Initiative offers resources for young people to set up their own groups, offering advice on leadership, activities, fundraising and budgeting. The CMYI also has a register that offers young people opportunities to express their views and work with organisations and government departments to influence change. Speakers at the launch included Nosrat Hosseini, a CMYI project participant and Moreland Young Citizen of the Year 2006.

Mr Cashman

ZERO INTEREST$
CHARGES$
FOR NEW LOAN

Wesley Mission Melbourne
Supports disadvantaged people to live meaningful lives